

ROBISCHON

POST Rembrandt CARD

i woke up this morning thinking about my childhood coloring books and being told to color inside the lines, that i must keep both hands on the wheel when learning to drive, and that glorious day when marty first took off her shirt while leaning against the wall in her gray gabardine pants. when the wind suddenly blew the door closed i knew it was time to pack my bag and prepare to leave this place once and for all.

PUBLISHED BY NOBLE, COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

FOUND NARRATIVE #24

WORLD'S LARGEST POSTCARD SHOP
GREENSBURG, KANSAS